ePlus® OneSource® IT+ Multiple Sources — One Process

How do you manage ordering of IT assets directly from multiple providers while maintaining control of a single process? You don't—unless you take advantage of OneSource IT+, a single solution for all your IT procurement, only from ePlus.

Why IT Procurement Is Complex

Every organization buys IT, yet it is one of the most complex procurement areas whose commodities constantly change. Traditional procurement systems are not optimized to deal with complex IT spending and configurations.

Prices and products are always changing, IT standards need to be adhered to, and more often IT groups do their own buying—outside of the purchasing department.

As a result, multiple contracts are established with VARs and manufacturers, and complexity increases.

The Hidden Costs of Multiple Sources

Because IT products and prices change so rapidly, ordering online has become the de-facto method of choice.

But ordering from multiple web sites carries its own costs:

- + Each web site has its own look and feel, and your users have to work with them all.
- + Orders are split across multiple web sites.
- + Each site has different delivery schedules and ordering and tracking processes.
- + Invoice processes vary.
- + Multiple integration points are required.

When the suppliers "own" your ordering information, you also lose a single view of your overall IT spend.

Why IT Procurement Needs to Be Simple

Relationships with too many providers results in operational inefficiencies and many manual processes, resulting in:

- + Higher administration costs
- + Longer fulfillment cycles
- + No common approval workflow
- + Reduced compliance with agreements
- + No consolidated invoice process
- + Too many invoices
